

The dramatic shift from nomadic lifestyles to a settled agricultural lifestyle is known as
Job _____ is a characteristic of a civilization.
Cultural _____ may have affected an early civilization by introducing new customs and technologies to.
Record keeping and _____ is a characteristic of a civilization.
Domestication is the selective breeding of _____ and animals to make them more useful to humans.
The Tigris and the _____ rivers form the heart of the Fertile Crescent.
Sumerians lacked raw materials such as wood and metal so they developed a _____ network.
Cuneiform is type of Sumerian _____.
The Babylonian legal code that based punishment on social class.
A government controlled by religious leaders
The Egyptian king, known as the _____, had absolute power due to the fact that they believed to be gods.
Type of religion is the belief in many gods.
North African traders crossed the Sahara on camels in order to trade _____ for gold.
The economy of the Indus civilization was based on agriculture and _____.
Buddhist teaching that advises people to live in moderation and to avoid extremes is called the _____ Way.
Belief system that teaches that those who follow the Eightfold Path could attain nirvana.
Sumer is a Mesopotamian city-_____.
The two major cities of the Indus Valley are Mohenjo Daro and _____.
Buddhists believe that those who follow the Eightfold Path can attain _____ or enlightenment.
The Han dynasty prized this manufactured product.
Network of trade routes was pioneered during the Han dynasty is the _____ Roads.
The civil service system required governmental candidates to demonstrate their knowledge in this belief system.
China's geographic isolation is due to hills, deserts and _____.
Respect, especially of family is a belief of this religion.

The two major city-states of Greece are _____ and _____.
Sparta _____.
The Greek city-state of _____ was characterized by it's emphasis on warfare.
The Greek philosopher, Plato, is famous is the author of "The _____".
The question, "What is truth?" is associated with which Greek philosopher?
Direct _____ is a form of government in which citizens rule directly and not through representatives.
Because the law of the _____ Tables were _____ displayed, judges were not able to make decisions based on secret laws.
The Law of the Twelve Tables protected _____ against unjust treatment by patricians.
During Pax _____ only patricians were allowed to hold office.
A _____ is a form of government in which citizens choose their leaders by voting.
What religion is Rome the birthplace of?
The _____ is the largest empire in South America.
The _____ government was controlled by _____.
The _____ government was _____.
Spanish conquistadors, such as _____, _____.

<http://jeopardy4bs.com/play/mesoamerica-greece-and-rome>

the decline of both the _____ Empire and Inca Empire.
Floating gardens, otherwise _____, were _____ by the Aztec Empire.
The Iliad and the _____ epic poetry.
New schools of philosophy developed during the _____ period due to the blending of ideas from other cultures.
Classical _____ created sculptures of human forms that looked as though they could move.
The Athenian lawmaker, _____, created a set of harsh laws in order to bridge the gap between the rich and poor.
Bridge-like stone structures that carry water from the hills into Roman cities are called _____.
The first farming settlements _____, due to _____ temperatures, rainfall and fertile _____.
The rugged mountains of _____ affected the development of the city-states.
The _____ Sea was the center for trade for the Greeks and Romans.
The _____ Mountains protected and isolated the Romans.
The _____ civilization built terraces in order to prevent erosion.	